

AI-READY CLASSROOM SCORECARD

Can Your Classroom Prepare Students for an AI-Driven World?

A 60-SECOND SELF-ASSESSMENT FOR TEACHERS

★ SCORE EACH STATEMENT: ★

3

= Yes

2

= Partially

1

= Not Yet

1. I understand the difference between AI tools and AI literacy.

☐☐☐

2. I know how to explain AI in an age-appropriate way.

☐☐☐

3. My students learn how AI works—not just how to use it.

☐☐☐

4. I encourage students to question AI-generated answers.

☐☐☐

5. My classroom develops creativity alongside technology.

☐☐☐

6. I intentionally teach critical thinking during AI-related activities.

☐☐☐

7. I discuss digital responsibility and AI ethics with students.

☐☐☐

8. I know which AI tools are appropriate for my students' age.

☐☐☐

9. Parents understand why AI literacy is important.

☐☐☐

10. I feel confident leading AI conversations in my classroom.

☐☐☐

TOTAL SCORE: _____ / 30

Add your points (3, 2, or 1) for each statement.

★ YOUR RESULTS ★

25-30

AI-Ready Classroom

Your classroom is building strong foundations for AI literacy. Keep empowering students to think, create, question, and use AI responsibly.

18-24

Building Confidence

You're making great progress. A few practical strategies can help strengthen your AI literacy teaching even further.

10-17

Growing Awareness

You've started the journey. With additional guidance and ready-to-use resources, your classroom can become AI-ready.

0-9

Start Here

Every great classroom begins with one intentional step. AI literacy doesn't require perfection—it starts with preparation.

“

AI literacy is not about teaching children how to use AI tools.

It is about teaching them how to think, create, question, and use technology wisely.

— Miss JOY

READY TO BUILD AN AI-READY CLASSROOM?

Ready-to-Teach AI Lessons

Teacher Professional Development

AI Explorers Curriculum

Classroom Resources

AI EXPLORERS ACADEMY

Preparing the First AI-Native Generation

Discover • Imagine • Create with AI!

FOLLOW & STAY CONNECTED

Irene Dostov (Miss JOY)
Founder of AI Explorers Academy